LEADERSHIP LETTER

Birlikten kuvvet doğar.
TOGETHER we are stronger.

Dear Donors, Partners, and Friends:

Like all of you, Turkish Philanthropy Funds has spent the past several months reacting to the ever-changing impacts of COVID-19. As the pandemic touches each of us, our focus has been on addressing the needs of those who have been disproportionately impacted and helping the tens of nonprofit organizations that offer vital support. Now more than ever, the needs in our communities are being felt more deeply with all of us eager to help.

These uncertain times make us long for the normal things: visits with family, meals with friends, celebrations, and routines. And yet, the disruptions and loss have also given us the opportunity to reflect on how we must do more. TPF has acted with renewed energy.

As an organization, we constantly work to bring our community TOGETHER in different ways around philanthropy. Over the last decade, we have built a wealth of knowledge that enables us to choose smart solutions and effective nonprofits to carry impactful programs out on behalf of our donors. The milestones this year proved once again that TPF is responding to what our community expects and needs from us. This year, we were able to distribute close to $2 million in grants bringing our total grantmaking since inception to more than $23 million. Our work this year focused on:

- Mobilizing community support and providing emergency grants to nonprofits responding to crises in their local communities,
- Convening nonprofit partners, businesses, and donors for increased collaboration to effectively serve our community during COVID-19; and
- Identifying and raising resources for projects that help fill social and economic gaps in Turkey from education to women empowerment.

Our record of success and deep connections with NGO partners and the Turkish-American community have enabled us to respond to the Elazig earthquake and the COVID-19 pandemic quickly with targeted funds. We have touched the lives of more than 50,000 with these funds by supporting recovery efforts, closing gaps, and addressing unmet needs. Among our notable highlights:

- Donation of a life-saving medical machine in the treatment of Covid-19 to Inonu University Medical School in Malatya making it the second machine of its kind in the country,
- Providing the much-needed PPE to healthcare workers in Turkey,
- Offering cash assistance to Turkish students in the US to go back home, and
- Funding tens of scholarships.

As we look ahead, we are more focused than ever on mobilizing our philanthropic community for Turkey and Turkish American causes. We have been deeply touched and inspired by the genuine acts of kindness that we have seen every day in the last several months. The COVID-19 Community Relief Fund and the Elazig Earthquake Fund are only two of the ways that your generosity has connected our community and demonstrated the impact we can have through your involvement.

On the following pages, we are pleased to share information about TPF's impact through stories that speak to the values of our organization and the ways our fundholders, donors, partners, businesses, and friends are taking action to ensure we are resilient in these difficult, unprecedented times. And, while we know there is much work to be done, we are proud that TPF is playing an important part in bringing people TOGETHER to give, to help, and to heal.

With heartfelt gratitude,

PHILANTHROPY

Your gifts.
Our community connections.

Our story began in 2007 when a handful of visionaries united as a small but determined team to establish Turkish Philanthropy Funds to provide a platform for impactful and effective philanthropy.

This solid framework grew stronger over the next decade as TPF expanded into new states in the U.S. and formed partnerships in Turkey to better support the generosity and passion of donors across the U.S. As TPF grew we adopted the role of collaborator, growing philanthropic impact through new partnerships and supporting organizations. By valuing open communication and collaboration with a diverse array of organizations, we widened our reach to create lasting change.

This year, especially with the COVID-19 pandemic, our communities faced new challenges that demanded innovative solutions. TPF has stepped up to meet that need by seeking new methods of community investing, and demonstrating ingenuity and creativity in our philanthropy. We are proud that our community sustains and enhances the quality of life for many and has created valuable connections over the past 13 years.

2. JOIN A GIVING CIRCLE

A "giving circle" is formed when individuals come TOGETHER to pool their dollars, decide TOGETHER where to give the money and other resources such as volunteer time, and learn TOGETHER about their community and philanthropy. As a result, their collective impact is far greater than anyone member could achieve alone, and their relationships with specific charities create a deeper level of involvement for donors and the nonprofits they support.

Turkish Philanthropy Funds' Giving Circles are opportunities for community members to join TOGETHER to pool their dollars to make a greater impact in areas they are passionate about.

Giving circles have memberships, their own activities, and events, and make grants as a group. As a result, their collective impact is far greater than anyone member could achieve alone, and their relationships with specific charities create a deeper level of involvement for donors and the nonprofits they support.

Community is at the center of our beliefs, Giving Circles enables us to harness our community's resources collectively, build awareness of social needs, and inspire and foster the spirit of individual giving.

PLAN TODAY, GIVE LATER

Create Future Community Connections

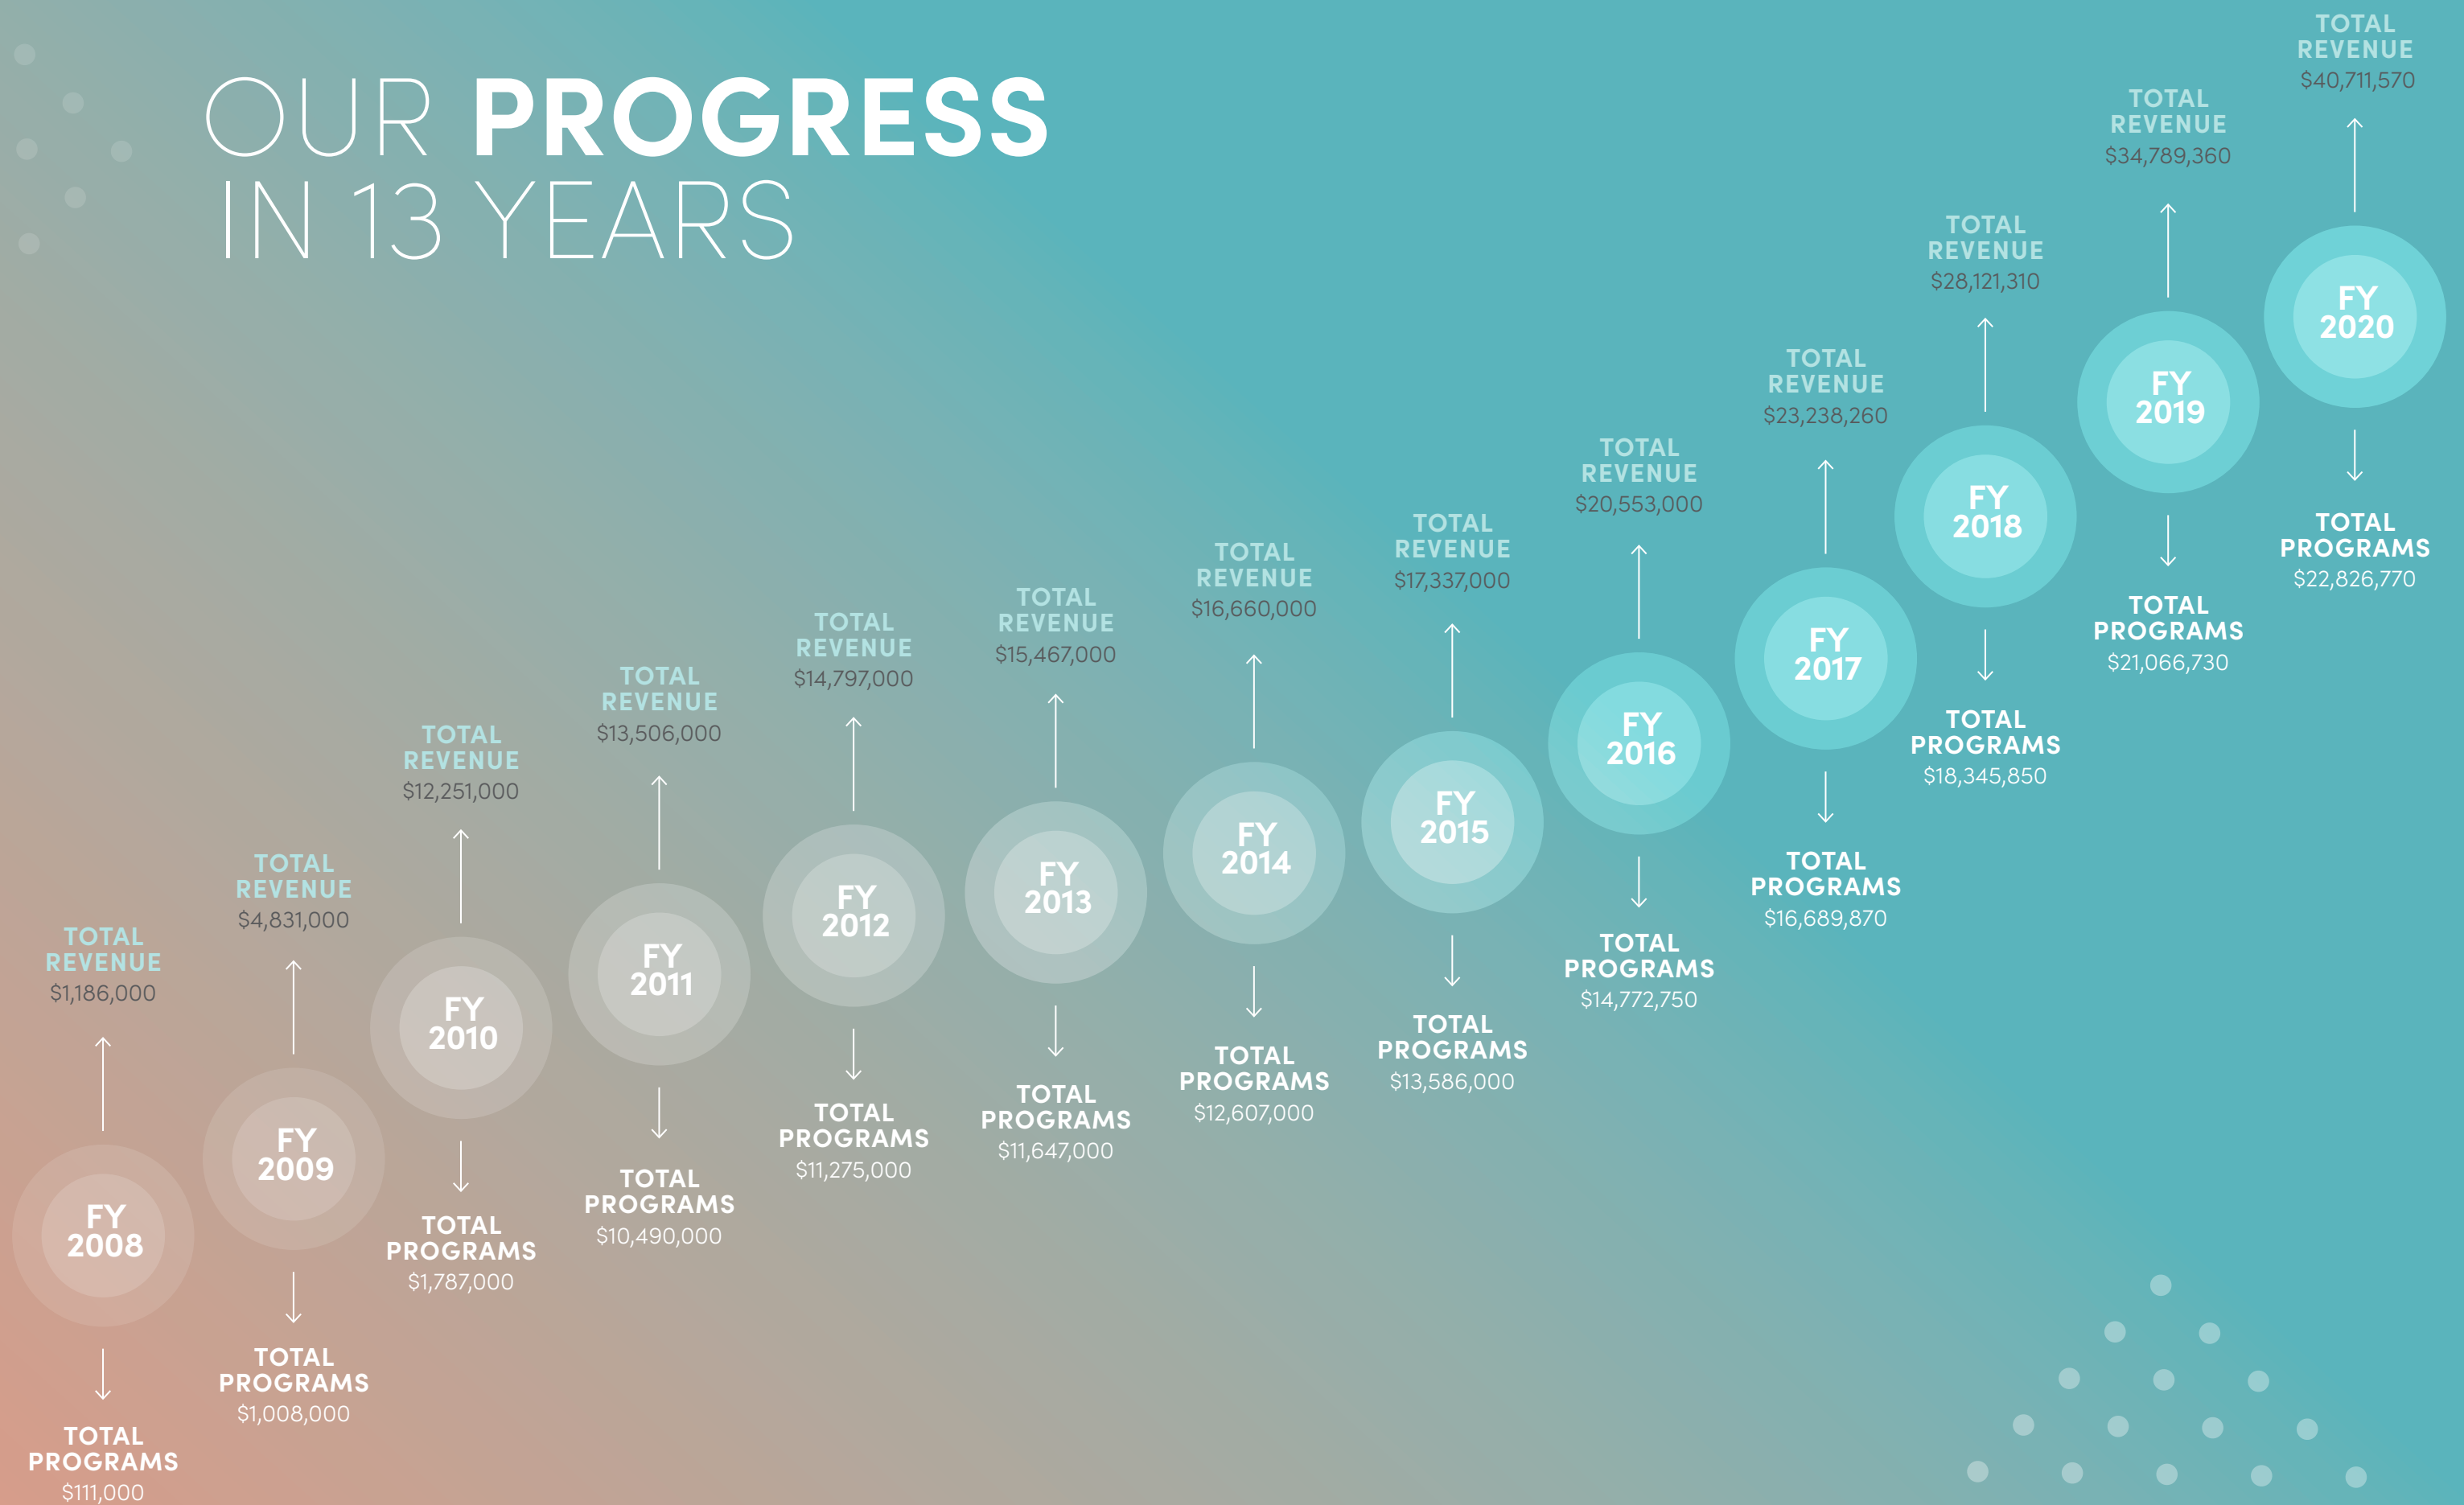

Planned Gifts enable you to make significant contributions that may not have been possible during your lifetime. You can give what's left after your heirs are cared for as you get tax benefits. Plan today; let TPF realize it upon the donor's passing.

- Name TPF on your Charitable Bequests to receive all or a portion of your estate through your will or trust while you get tax benefits today.
- Make a simple contract through Charitable Gift Annuity that guarantees you a fixed income in exchange for a gift to TPF.
- Designate TPF as the beneficiary on your Life Insurance policy. Your assets will be transferred to TPF once you pass away, reducing estate and income taxes.
- Through Life Estate, give your personal residence or ranch as a gift, occupy the residence or land without disruption, and receive a charitable deduction for the remainder interest.

- Set up Charitable Lead Trusts that generate dividends. Throughout the term of the trust, earned dividends go to TPF while the remaining assets go to your heirs, tax-free, on the trust's appreciation.
- Create a Charitable Remainder Trusts to transfer cash and assets to an irrevocable trust and may receive income for life or a certain term of years. The remainder passes to TPF, creating a permanent fund in your name.

OUR PROGRESS IN 13 YEARS

If we think back to what inspired us to give, we can all find similarities in our stories. All the stories in the following pages make up our community and have one thing in common. These donors understand that they had an opportunity to leave a legacy that would positively impact our communities for generations to come. Each understood the importance of giving something back to the community - communities where they grew up, attended school, raised their children, built their businesses. And, they all inspire us and drive us to continue what we do.

GIVING WITH MEANING

“Giving toward a passion brings home a different message. You see the long-term rewards from investing in areas that hold a special place in your heart. Working with TPF has been incredibly rewarding because the internal satisfaction that comes when you give with MEANING is unparalleled.”

NİL AND BAHADIR ONALAN

Nil and Bahadır Onalan are known best for their philanthropy in their immediate community. “Our motivation in asking our friends and family to join us in our giving is to share this feeling of happiness of knowing you’re making a lasting impact on someone else’s life. If you truly want to be happy in your life, make someone else happy, and you will be too,” has been the couple’s motto. “Sharing and giving absolutely bring happiness to your life.

Fighting injustice in this world is possible via the contributions from you, be it time, or money,” continues Nil.

Giving has always been a priority for Nil and Bahadır. Yet, it became a central point in their lives as they became more successful in their careers. Giving back is a big part of Turkish culture and it was part of their lineage. They emphasize how they grew up with giving tradition in their families. “Because of our backgrounds, giving back has always been important to us whether it be through investing our time with communities or making a financial contribution.” Because supporting education is a shared passion for Nil and Bahadır, making a charitable investment initially in educational programs such as providing scholarships made perfect sense. As they grew into their success, their giving portfolio has grown as well. In 2013, Bahadır met TPF staff at, and the Onalans established the Umudumuz Fund, a donor-advised fund at TPF, later that year. “The commitment, dedication, and drive of Haldun Tashman, his family and friends, and his team, have built a sustainable, transparent, and trustworthy model for charitable purposes – a model which brought us to TPF” notes the couple. With the tools and resources from TPF in their purview, they have started investing in a variety of issues from the refugee crisis and supporting programs that fight against injustice and discrimination to environmental issues. The combination of personal experience and shared values made the Onalans’ giving even more meaningful.

The Onalans have several memories from their years of giving but the most memorable moments are seeing letters and photos from the children they support. This joy, they say, “cannot be found anywhere else.” Their ending sentence when they ask their friends to join them in their giving is: Start with helping ONE family, ONE child, ONE woman, and the rest will follow.

INSPIRING GIVING

From Generation to Generation

ZEYNEP AND EVREN BİLİMER

Zeynep Oğuz Bilimer's journey in philanthropy began at an early age as she grew up in a family dedicated to giving back. For her family, philanthropy and serving the community have been at the forefront for generations. Zeynep reflected on her family's generosity, especially to the community she grew up in. "I grew up in a city where the central mosque carries the name of my great-grandfather and schools are named after my parents. After my grandmother passed away, we met so many people whom she had silently supported financially for years."

Talk around giving back had always been the staple of dinner conversations when Zeynep was growing up. Both of her parents are individual recipients of the Turkish Grand National Assembly's Outstanding Service Award (TBMM Üstün Hizmet Ödülü). They built schools, provided countless scholarships, and supported many civic and cultural projects. After they retired, philanthropy became their sole purpose. "Their philosophy has always been to keep one-third of what they made, pay one third in taxes, and give back the remaining one third. Throughout my life I've seen how spiritually fulfilling giving back has been for my parents," notes Zeynep. Her parents are the quintessential model for giving; their lives of generosity will continue to impact those they care about long beyond their lifetimes. And, that is also what matters the most to Zeynep and her husband, Evren.

"It's been the greatest gift," says Zeynep. "I feel like what my parents taught us was an opportunity – an opportunity to make a difference and to explore within ourselves something they had already figured out: lifting up the people around you is what matters most. They knew that giving back could bring good to others, but also to us as we practiced generosity TOGETHER."

Today, Zeynep and Evren use their giving to help create a stronger community and a healthier society. Their preference is to support projects that may be otherwise unpopular or controversial for widespread support and programs that help people become self-sufficient. With this lens, Bilimers believe they have a better understanding of what the current needs are beyond their personal interests. They note: "This is a great way to broaden our perception of the needs in our communities."

Zeynep and her husband, Evren, have embedded giving back in their lifestyles. Early on in her career when Zeynep did not have the financial means to give, she was designing branding for non-profit organizations and helping them with their communication needs on a pro bono basis. Evren became a regular supporter of Action Against Hunger early in his career, an organization later for which Zeynep also became a big advocate. Their support to cure child malnutrition resonated even more as they became parents in hopes to help lower and eventually end child deaths due to malnutrition in the world. Now, as young parents, they constantly look for ways that can empower their two children philanthropically and get them excited about the ways they can contribute to society. “We have an obligation to give back where we live, where we come from, and to invest in our communities. We want our children to grow up learning about our family’s culture of giving and see themselves as part of the community narrative,” notes Zeynep.

The couple’s two children are both nature lovers and really worry about climate change so their giving involves organizations that fight it. Zeynep and Evren are aware that there are many worthy causes so being able to focus and know what’s most important to them as a family, and being able to align that with the giving they do have been really meaningful to their family.

Bilimers appreciate the many opportunities to learn and engage when you partner with TPF, whether it’s information about effective nonprofits in Turkey, support in vetting these non-profits, or the variety of issue-focused events TPF hosts. There’s something for everyone. For Bilimers, TPF allows their family to be a part of something their ancestors would’ve deeply appreciated. And, as the daughter of major philanthropists, Zeynep feels that this is her way to honor her family’s selfless acts and support of their immediate communities. And, as a bonus, Zeynep notes “giving back in return gives you a sense of purpose and you are happier and healthier as a result.”

JOINING TOGETHER

To Find Solutions

BURCU AND METE TUNCEL

Burcu and Mete Tuncel understand the value of giving back to their community. They have been devoted philanthropists and TPF donors for several years. Their involvement with Turkish Philanthropy Funds began through Burcu's connection to Nihal and Haldun Tashman as the 2004 recipient of the Tashman Fellowship for her MBA degree at Columbia University but continued with Burcu and Mete's working with Özlenen Kalav, former President and CEO of TPF, at the Robert College Alumni Association of America. Having these connections enabled them to have a true introduction to TPF and begin their philanthropic journey with TPF.

The Tuncels are drawn to help children in need and found their passion in two main areas: education and healthcare. Through Turkish Philanthropy Funds Burcu and Mete were able to find organizations they wanted to get involved with and they were able to trust that their support would go to the areas they imagined. "I enjoy being very hands-on," says Burcu Tuncel. "With TPF, I've loved being involved in the projects we support from Turkish Philanthropic Association (Türkiye Yardım Sevenler Derneği) to fund schools in my hometown to raise awareness on early childhood education to provide scholarships to TOHUM Autism Foundation which offers top of the line education for kids with needs and supporting children affected by leukemia and their families through LOSEV."

The couple brings a creative attitude to raising money and awareness as well. Right when the pandemic hit our communities, Burcu and Mete looked for a way to help people in Turkey. The couple reached out to TPF to discuss potential ideas. Burcu did not only bring in her passion for giving to TPF but also her network and connections. She connected with her Robert College classmates, Yasemin Sıralı and Özge Karadağ Çaman for guidance and help. Her research revealed the need for a medical machine called the Cerus Intercept System that can be life-saving in the treatment of Covid-19. And, there was only one of them in Turkey, in Istanbul. Burcu reached out to Robert College alumni to raise funds. A major gift by another Robert College classmate, Umur Çubukçu, and many others enabled TPF to donate the device to İnönü Üniversitesi Turgut Özal Tıp Merkezi in Malatya. This machine which inactivates pathogens in the plasma collected from individuals who have recovered from coronavirus disease is a life-changing opportunity to help fight the infection. "Turgut Özal Tıp Merkezi is the largest stem cell and organ transplant hospital in Turkey with 222 stem cells and more than 300 liver transplants in 2019. With the onset of the Covid-19 pandemic, it became the first hospital to start immune plasma therapy in the world after centers in China. Knowing that this will make a huge difference for thousands of people during these uncertain times of Covid-19 and will continue to be used in the long-term for stem cell and organ transplants once the pandemic is over, makes this one of the most memorable moments of our lives," notes Burcu and Mete.

INTERCEPT

This along with many other reasons continues to inspire the Tuncels to give back and do so through TPF.

"Working with TPF gives us a sense of security and reassurance that our contributions go to make the lasting impressions we desire. TPF helped us stay on top of things. With TPF's due diligence, we know our donations go to the right place. When you donate through TPF, the grantees take you more seriously. They make things happen. They know TPF will follow-up and that they have to deliver on time" says Burcu.

As Burcu and Mete continue their journey with TPF, they hope to educate friends and family on the power of intentional giving.

Mete and Burcu plan to continue identifying opportunities to tell their friends and family how they can give thoughtfully and see the results of their investment. "We are excited about the opportunities we'll have to make contributions for many years to come to charitable organizations we care about," Burcu said. "And, TPF makes it so easy."

Furthering FAMILY VALUES

OSMAN CİĞEROĞLU

Osman Cığeroğlu is tremendously intentional about his charitable giving and has partnered with TPF in a variety of ways to align his values with his personal giving.

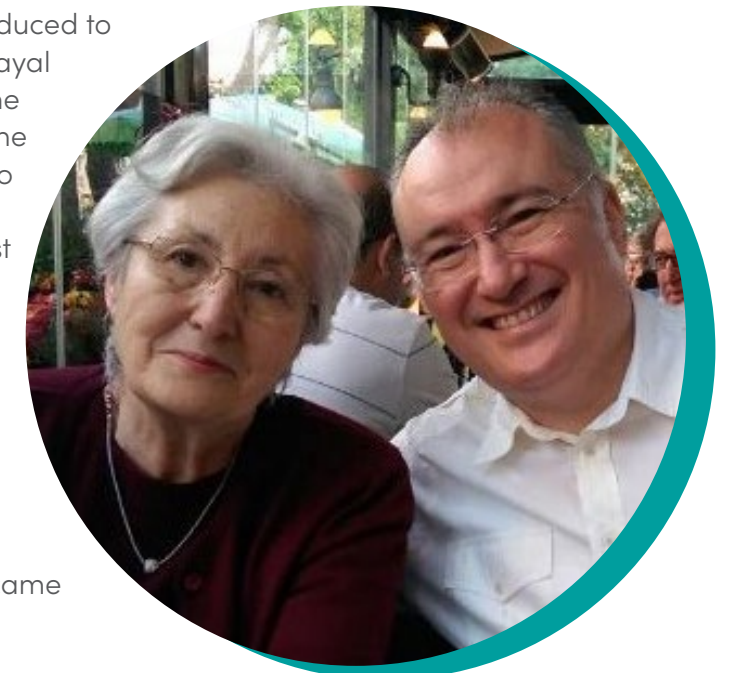

"I'm a strong believer in social responsibility, and that you can advocate and influence change not only through giving charitably but in how you choose to invest your funds," says Osman. "I give back to help create positive change. There are so many critical issues out there that need support, resolution, and helping hands. There are many great nonprofits I was introduced through TPF that are the ones championing causes and taking on the big issues."

"I am largely inspired by my FAMILY, particularly my mother, to give of my time, talent, and money. I grew up watching her give my entire life," says Osman.

Osman's mother was an English teacher. She has always gone beyond helping students with their studies. She covered their school expenses and got them school supplies. As Osman grew older, he saw first hand how her mother touched people's lives. At a young age, he understood how important education and having someone believe in you and work for you to succeed is. The students Osman's mother helped personally became very successful - one became the general manager of a big medical device company, another a prominent lawyer, and another an engineer. Giving back is something Osman grew up seeing and normalizing, which in turn made him who he is today as a philanthropist someone who wants to invest in children.

Osman came to the US in 2014 and was introduced to TPF a few years later by his friends, Onur Karayal and Serhan Secmen. They assured him that he can continue to give back to Turkey but with the comfort of knowing his donations would get to the right organizations and people. Learning more about TPF, he saw how this was the best way to give back to Turkey, as TPF is a very secure and trustworthy organization, works with a variety of nonprofits in Turkey, and has made transparency a priority.

Through TPF, Osman honed his values, often prioritizing transparency and effectiveness when considering charitable funding opportunities through the giving circle he became part of at TPF.

"I'm a strong believer in funding organizations that have permanence and a model that allows them to continue from year to year," Osman says. "Effectiveness goes hand in hand with impact. I'm always looking for where our dollars will go the furthest, and I have a passion for supporting girls' education. I want to uplift those that are underrepresented," says Osman. Those are the reasons he had decided to give to PAYDA. The organization invests in the future of girls' education living in underdeveloped areas of Turkey and who face financial hardships to continue their education. The most appealing part of PAYDA's program was that the organization offered guardianship/mentorship programs for donors to help stay connected to the students. Through the program, you can opt in to be assigned a mentee and follow their journey. Osman was brought to tears when he had the first update of his mentee and her outstanding grades.

"I'm still learning and have a lot to learn, but the only way to do so is to dive in and participate in programs like PAYDA and educate yourself. And, more importantly, see the impact you can make first hand. When we're more informed and see our impact directly, we can help support organizations more effectively," says Osman. "The needs are so great and when you get involved, you want to do more and give more than just time."

"From a time perspective, I want to be extremely effective in giving, so as our giving circle, we have been focusing on learning how to be better philanthropists, trying to discover more about different programs through TPF and how we can help," says Osman. "Meeting with nonprofits with TPF has been fantastic and has made us more confident in our decisions, which often leads to deeper generosity."

Osman was impacted by the small acts he saw his mother doing while growing up. His mother inspired giving in him. She was such a generous person. And, Osman is following in her footsteps by investing in the education of children in Turkey and giving them the opportunity to be the leaders of tomorrow.

OUR RESPONSE TO ELAZIĞ EARTHQUAKE RELIEF FUND

TOGETHER we provided hope and healing to thousands of people in the earthquake-affected towns and villages.

THE CHALLENGE

On January 24th, 2020 disaster struck the eastern region of Elazığ in Turkey. The devastating earthquake left tens of people dead and thousands homeless and displaced.

THE RESPONSE

TPF created the Elazığ Earthquake Relief Fund on the day the earthquake only a few hours after the earthquake. The fund was created as a bridge to help organizations with emergency relief and long-term development programs that can revive earthquake hit areas both socially and economically, and give new opportunities to the survivors and the Elazığ and neighboring communities.

Only a few hours after the devastating earthquake civil society organizations in the country established the Civil Society Disaster Platform (Sivil Toplum Afet Kordinasyon Platformu- SITAP) to respond to the need in the city in a coordinated way. TPF joined the platform and closely followed the developments on the ground minute by minute. An online communication channel among SITAP stayed active 24-hours a day identifying the needs, organizing volunteers, distributing basic supplies, giving trauma support, and responding to whatever is needed.

Our community responded to our call-to-action immediately and generously. TPF donor gifts not only provided much-needed supplies such as food, hygiene products, and blankets, and gave mental health support to children and families dealing with the trauma of the earthquake but most importantly helped to provide hope and healing to thousands of people in the earthquake-affected towns and villages.

THE IMPACT

- 1 SUPPORT TO LIFE
(Hayata Destek Derneği) $12,750
Provided hygiene kits and cleaning supplies to households that are affected the most by the earthquake. In total 160 families and approximately 1,040 people were supported.
- 2 MOTHER-CHILD EDUCATION FOUNDATION
(Anne Çocuk Eğitim Vakfı) $8,935
Supported the infrastructure for psychosocial support to children and their parents who live in remote areas and villages that were affected by the earthquake. Approximately 17,750 children and 4,170 adults benefited from the project.
- 3 COMMUNITY VOLUNTEERS FOUNDATION
(Toplum Gönüllüleri Vakfı) $12,255
Provided 10 students from disadvantaged backgrounds two-year-long scholarships to support their education.
- 4 KAMER FOUNDATION
(Kadin Merkezi Vakfı) $10,235

TPF COVID-19 COMMUNITY RELIEF FUND

“Disasters can cause suffering to anyone anywhere. Providing help gives our lives meaning. With the Covid-19 Fund, TPF gave our community a platform to respond collectively. A rapid and very effective response. Participating in this campaign has been incredibly gratifying for our family. Kudos to all the donors and team TPF.”

Haldun Tashman, Chairman Emeritus, TPF

THE RESPONSE

In response to the outbreak, Turkish Philanthropy Funds launched the TPF COVID-19 Community Relief Fund to support containment, response, and recovery activities for those affected. TPF COVID-19 Community Relief Fund focused on supporting nonprofit organizations working directly to respond to the pandemic among the most vulnerable populations and to hospitals to provide the much-needed gear and equipment to help build their capacity for response.

TPF worked closely with our grantee partners on the ground in Turkey and social service organizations in the US to follow needs and identified the following areas to support:

THE CHALLENGE

As the global novel coronavirus outbreak rapidly evolved and expanded, it tested our collective strength across the world and brought our community closer TOGETHER. Millions went into lockdown and businesses across the globe were closed. Our communities in the US and in Turkey were left wondering what the long-term impact of the illness will be on their communities and their livelihoods.

HEALTHCARE WORKERS AND HOSPITALS: TPF supported capital purchases of masks, gowns, gloves, and other essential personal protective equipment to prevent the infection of essential medical staff who were at increased risk because of their close contact with people who were infected. As well as the purchase of an Intercept illuminator machine to be used to inactivate the residual virus and other infectious pathogens that may be present in donor blood before blood to transfusions Covid-19 patients. The machine was donated to Inonu University in Malatya.

QUARANTINED INDIVIDUALS: As the pandemic hit, quarantining was crucial in helping control the spread of the virus. However, this meant individuals were unable to go to work, go shopping for necessities, or even see their families in some cases. The TPF Covid19 Community Relief Fund worked to provide funding to organizations that provided support to quarantined individuals. Support included food and hygiene products, protective and cleaning materials, and food and financial assistance.

VULNERABLE POPULATIONS: TPF provided support to organizations supporting vulnerable populations including low-income children and families, hourly wage earners, workers in the gig economy, older adults, people with disabilities, and other communities vulnerable to the physical health, mental health, and economic impacts of the pandemic to provide food, shelter and other basic needs.

EDUCATIONAL SUPPORT: Funds were used to support students who come from families who have financial difficulties with scholarships, computers/tablets for distance education, and internet service.

INFRASTRUCTURAL SUPPORT: We have supported some of the nonprofit organizations to help organizations strengthen their capacity to reach more individuals during the pandemic.

Our targeted, localized, and holistic grantmaking strategy during COVID-19 followed:

1 ANALYSIS

- TPF staff carefully assessed the overall impact of the disaster across three priorities:
- a) Geographic impact of the event (e.g. specific cities, towns, and counties).
 - b) Populations affected (e.g. women, children, older adults, medically dependent).
 - c) Under-attended issues that arise as a result of the pandemic (e.g. food security, housing and mental health, medical needs).
 - d) We also worked to identify how other funders are allocating their dollars.

2 EXPERTISE

While TPF staff drove the analysis portion of our work, we benefited significantly from the expertise of local organizations, national philanthropic institutions, medical doctors, and experts. These individuals informed the needs assessment and offered advice on unmet needs.

3 COMMUNITY CONNECTIONS: An essential part of TPF grantmaking has been connecting with the community. Our team leveraged existing relationships with the philanthropic and nonprofit community and built new ones by connecting with community members and other funders. In addition, we utilized data and maps, reviewed media reports, and took into account others' assessments. We had no intention of "going it alone." Our strategic fund distribution process benefited from a range of voices on the ground.

4 GRANTEE BALANCE AND FOCUS: Our belief is, when missions match and solid relationships are in place, the grantmaker and grant recipient relationships flow seamlessly. We believe in building local capacity and planning for the future. To do this, we worked closely to allocate funds across local organizations in the US and to organizations in Turkey that focus on the geographical, population, and issue areas that are highest in need. Our criteria have been implementation capability, efficiency, and most importantly, transparency.

5 GRANT SOLICITATION: We not only provided support to TPF partners but also did need assessments to determine other nonprofit organizations both in the US and in Turkey to invite to apply for funding.

YEAR IN REVIEW

Turkish Philanthropy Funds is committed to serving as a steward of the generous gifts entrusted to us by donors. This is a picture of all that we have accomplished TOGETHER.

ORGANIZATIONAL EFFICIENCY

CHANGE IN NET ASSETS OVER SIX YEARS

FINANCIAL STEWARDSHIP

Turkish Philanthropy Funds takes great pride in providing clear, transparent information about our investment management and performance, our financial position, and our administrative fees.

Our board of directors has developed investment policies and guidelines that provide for prudent asset management. An Investment Committee, composed of board members and volunteers experts in the investment field, oversees the investment activities of TPF.

INVESTMENT MANAGEMENT

Effective and strategic investment of assets is one of our key responsibilities. Turkish Philanthropy Funds investment philosophy is to invest charitable funds prudently that support both growth and grantmaking. TPFs investment portfolio is made up of diversified pools managed by specialized investment managers.

- 1. Guidance: With our Investment Committee overseeing the management of TPF’s investment program, we rely on seasoned investment and business professionals drawn from our Board of Directors and the larger community.
- 2. Transparency: TPF consistently works to enhance its reporting, assuring that donors understand our overall strategy for managing long-term and short-term assets. TPF communicates frequently with donors to make it easy to obtain detailed information on our financial position, portfolio performance, administrative fees, and policies. All audits and returns are available on our website.

3. Choice: Starting October 1, 2018, TPF partners with Morgan Stanley Global Impact Funding Trust, Inc. (MS GIFT) for the purpose of establishing donor-advised fund accounts at MS GIFT. MS GIFT is an organization described in Section 501(c) (3) of the Code and is the sponsor of a donor-advised fund program. As the sponsor of TPF’s DAFs, MS GIFT manages the investment of DAFs. 4. Fees: Our administrative fee on your investment is straightforward, all-inclusive, and drives higher returns. Each Fund is subject to an annual charitable administrative fee to cover DAF operating expenses such as grantmaking, recordkeeping, annual audits, tax filing, quarterly statements, and other legal and fiscal responsibilities. We follow your instructions and execute your philanthropic needs. We closely manage costs to minimize these fees and benchmark them against industry averages to ensure competitiveness. Fees also keep us on track to ensure that we provide the highest quality service to our donors. In addition, Fund accounts are charged relevant investment management fees by MS GIFT.
